

“Yes we can” team RUBY

:Mr.Mukunda Jana (51yrs) was enjoying his lunch at a family function at Haldia. A fish bone as big as 2” x 2” dimension got stuck in his oesophagus.Without waiting any further, he judiciously came to Ruby Hospital – he reached here at around 10:30 at night and was immediately attended by ENT specialist Dr. Aneek Bhattacharya. Preliminary medication was started and a CT scan was done to determine the exact site where the fishbone was still stuck.

The hospital promptly formed a Medical Board the following morning and the Board unanimously agreed that Endoscopic Surgical Extraction is inevitable. Without further delay, Mr Jana was shifted to the Operation Theatre where the expertise of Dr. Aneek Bhattacharya, ENT surgeon and Dr. Sunil Bran Das Chakraborty, Endoscopic specialist and Dr. Bharati Ray, Anaesthetist together helped to get the bone out.
